Coping in lockdown for kids

It's absolutely normal to feel scared, confused or angry with everything you're hearing about coronavirus and lockdowns. Here's a few tips:

- Talk to someone you trust about your feelings.
- Use reliable sources to get your information.
- Try different ways to stay in touch with family and friends. Video calls work great, but it's fun to go old school with a letter or card.
- Be active. PE's not happening and sports clubs are closed. It's still really important to get fresh air and exercise. Joe Wicks is back from next Mon too!
- Do what you enjoy or try something new. Make a list of books you want to read or hobbies to check out.
- Be Kind. Doing something for others also makes you feel good. And we're all in this together!

Try

Get moving! Physical and mental health are connected – so eat well and exercise to release endorphins. Find a fun activity that suits you and your schedule.

Setting aside time to have fun or indulge yourself – positive emotions can help build a buffer against stress.

Learning a new skill – whether painting, playing guitar or a new language.

Sharing how you're feeling – it's OK to ask for help and support.

Avoid

Overdoing it on sugar, caffeine or alcohol – they're a quick fix which can increase stress in the long term.

Overworking and checking your emails out of hours – we all need time to unwind.

Spending too much of your free time in front of a screen – phone included. Don't feel pressured to always be 'doing' something.

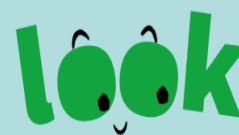

Chasing perfection – it can create unrealistic expectations. Accept that mistakes will happen.
